HITLER ARMIES ENTER RUMANIA

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Oct. 7—Authoritative German sources openly admitted today that Nazi troops are en route to Rumania in accordance with provisions of the Reich's guarantee to the Bucharest government of Premier General Ion Antonescu.

This admission provided the first real indication of the trend and import of the momentous

BULLETIN

BUCHAREST, Oct. 7 (AP)—Widespread evidence existed in Rumania tonight that all branches of Germany's defense forces as well as German industry were planning to aid and buttress the defense of Rumania.

decisions reached by Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini at the recent Brenner Pass conference.

The British Broadcasting Corp., in an announcement heard in New York by NBC, quoted a dispatch from Bucharest today saying Italian troops had arrived in Rumania "to protect Italy's interests." Authorized sources in Rome said there was no confirmation of the report.—Editor's note.

Motive for the sudden dispatch of Reich troops to Rumania was not revealed, but authentic quarters implied that the Axis powers aim to forestall any British "surprise" anywhere in the Black sea region.

"PROTECTING OIL"

Significant allusion was made to Baku, the rich and strategic oil producing city in Transcaucasia on the Caspian sea.

Associated Press dispatches from Berlin quoted "authorized sources" as stating: "We haven't forgotten British designs on Baku and other oil points," thereby hinting that military protection of oil fields is perhaps the prime motive in sending troops into Rumania.

"We don't do these things for fun," the sources said, referring to Germany's guarantees of Rumania's frontier after the Vienna award. "We are not like England, for instance, which guaranteed Poland, but left it in the lurch."—Editor's note.

German quarters recalled a diplomatic incident which occurred last summer when a purported letter to the Paris government from the French ambassador to Ankara allegedly uncovered an Anglo-French plan to set fire to the Baku oil fields.

This plan, as developed in the German expose, was to be carried out by planes flying over Turkey and bombing the oil fields. Turkey was pictured as implicated in the plot.

German quarters insisted that whatever developments occur in the southeast are not directed against Russia. But whether a Russo-German deal is in the making

Famed Westminster Abbey Gouged by Large Nazi Bomb

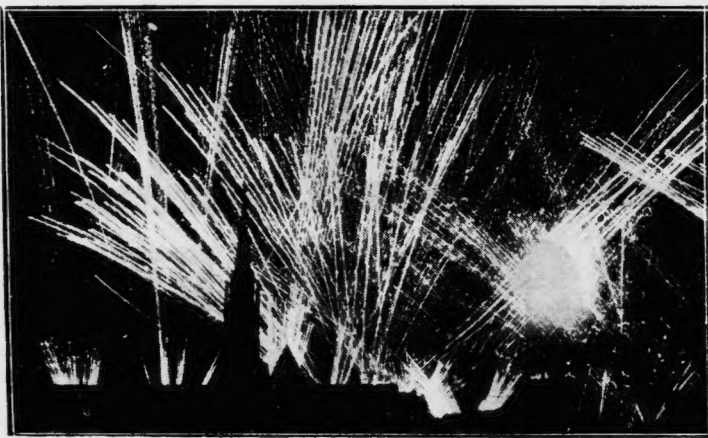

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Ancient Westminster Abbey, where Britain has crowned her kings and queens and buried many of her illustrious dead, has been severely damaged by a large German bomb.

The raid occurred recently but the authorities at first barred mention of its effect.

The missile, which blasted a hole 20 feet in diameter in old palace yard, behind the statue of Richard the Lion-Hearted near the peer's entrance of the House of Lords, also damaged the roof of fashionable St. Margaret's Church, adjacent to the abbey, and blew in hundreds of leaded windows of the House of Lords.

There is hardly a window now intact in the House of Lords.

Concussion from the bomb caused considerable damage to the historic Henry VIII's chapel, 16th century shrine at the east end of

12 NAZ RAIDERS SHOT DOWN IN NEW SWOOP ON BRITAIN

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Droves of German bombers hammered the war-scarred London front with renewed mass assaults today, and some of the 450 planes which were estimated to have been used succeeded in penetrating to the central city.

Twelve of the raiders were shot down, the air ministry announced, in ferocious air battles in which the Germans were balked from reaching the capital in three of their five determined stabs. Eight British planes went down.

There were some fatalities and property was demolished by explosives dropped in parts of London outside the central area.

Dover, Eastbourne and "certain other towns" in Kent also were damaged, the air ministry said. The intensified attacks followed London's first quiet night in a month.

Brilliant sunshine followed easterly winds that grounded both British and German fliers.

DAMAGE BY BRITISH

However, the air ministry said its bomber squadrons made daylight attacks from the Netherlands to Boulogne, France, yesterday and did much damage among shipping, barges and airfields in a steady unfolding of the "master plan" to destroy Germany's ability to make war.

Daylight raids, starting with attacks by single or small groups of planes, broadened into a series of thrusts with large numbers taking part.

The raiding planes appeared to concentrate their attacks in the London area on the southwestern districts of the city. A number of casualties, including some deaths, were reported.

During the afternoon more bursts of gunfire were heard in central London. Puffs of shell bursts traced the course of a single raid.

Bombs Set London Industries Ablaze

BERLIN, Oct. 7 (AP)—Daylong attacks by relays of Nazi bombers have been concentrated today on London and southeast and central England, DNB, official German news agency, reported tonight.

Heavy bombs dropped on important industrial plants on the Thames at London had kept the capital under heavy clouds of smoke since morning, it reported.

At other places, the agency said, factories, railroad stations and tracks have been heavily damaged by direct hits.

DNB charged that since German air attacks on England have increased in force the British are shooting down an increasing number of Nazi sea rescue planes.

Ten such craft, the agency asserted, were destroyed during August and September in the English Channel and the North Sea.

High German sources, meanwhile, put a damper on conjecture over a "maybe" hint of land invasion of Great Britain broadcast by a German soldier-reporter, who said the Nazi air force "may soon be followed by hundreds of thousands of brave German soldiers who are in readiness and burning for action."

New Indo-China Demands by Japs

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 7 (AP)—Japan has made new and far-reaching demands on French Indo-China, including the outright cession of an important slice of Tongkin province, in the northeast corner of the colony, a usually reliable source said today.

This source, reporting receipt of "authentic information," said the second Japanese demand was cession of a northwest strip of the colony's territory to Thailand (Siam).

A third demand was reported to be that Indo-China grant independence to a southern district, presumably Cambodia, where a puppet native government would be established.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Lambeth Palace, residential seat of the Archbishop of Canterbury, has been made uninhabitable by German bombs which fell some time ago, it was disclosed today. The bombs forced the archbishop and his staff to move to residence in Canterbury. The entire central and newer section of the palace, which was erected in 1828, were struck on the river side by Nazi bombs.

the abbey, where many kings and queens lie buried and knights of Order of the Bath are installed with ancient bomb.

There was no direct hit on the abbey. The part used for crypts for rulers was not damaged but huge chunks of the outside masonry were blasted away.

Splinters were sent flying southeast from the bomb crater clear up over Victoria Tower, 236 feet high and the tallest of the three towers of the Houses of Parliament; others were catapulted to the northwest and marked a statue of Oliver Cromwell in front of Westminster Hall, 70 feet from the crater.

RICE EAGER FOR TURN TO TESTIFY

EDGARTOWN, Oct. 7.—Ralph Huntington Rice, 54-year-old teacher of voice culture, takes the stand in his own defense here today to refute charges of the state that he murdered Mrs. Clara M. Smith, 74, of Dorchester.

Notice that Rice would deny in testimony the slaying of the aged Christian Science reader came from his attorney, Frank G. Volpe, who said his client is eager to tell his own story.

Volpe, former assistant district attorney of Middlesex County, declared his client was innocent and that a "mystery man" not Rice, committed the crime.

Defense counsel promised that Rice would testify that the statement "I am guilty in his examination by the police was a 'slip of the tongue,'" and that the stenographic record does not contain everything that took place when he was questioned by police, July 7.

Rice was painted as an exemplary man by his counsel.

Mrs. Edna White, who was summoned from New York by the state to explain letters and telephone calls sent to her by Rice following the tragedy, will be recalled by the defense, Volpe said. She testified that she had been treating Rice for a nervous disorder.

Miss Caroline Rice, daughter of Phidela Rice, brother of the accused teacher and owner of the Island education school in a dormitory of which the aged woman student was attacked and murdered, testified previously that she heard her uncle cough between 12:30 and 1:30 a. m. on June 30, the morning of the murder, in his room in a cottage 200 feet away from the dormitory.

Saturday Banking Hours Now 9 to 12

ACTRESS HERE—Mrs. Lieselotte Von Hutschler, German actress, arrives in Boston today aboard the liner Mormacmail... from South America.

And today the adjutant-general's office of the Massachusetts National Guard tendered the tribute of such a funeral for her son to the heart-broken mother of young Frank C. Chalk of Cambridge.

The boy, who had been a member of Co. D, 101st Infantry, for three years, was a good soldier while he lived and it was for a good soldier the honors were tendered.

He died by his own hand, but he died because his heart—after all, the heart of only a little boy in the frame of a full-grown man—was crushed when the rules said he was too young.

DREAMS CRASH

He didn't understand, officials felt. He only saw the amash of all his dreams and in one misguided moment decided to close the unhappy chapter that had climaxed the happiest years of his young life.

Col. Porter B. Chase, assistant adjutant-general, understood that as he announced the state stood ready to provide a military escort a firing squad and a bugler to sound "Taps" at the boy's funeral Wednesday from the Blessed Sacrament Church, Cambridge.

The boy, meanwhile, was at the undertaking parlors of Charles B. Watson in Pearl st., Cambridge. It will be carried to the home of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chalk, Green st., late today.

The boy, one of five children, was only 13 but looking five or six years older, when he fulfilled the dream of his lifetime by joining the National Guard. And he gloried in the life.

REAL AGE DISCOVERED

Attending camp at Bourne, Pittsburg and Potsdam, enthusiastic during the maneuvers, awaiting the call that would see him at last a full-time soldier, the rebirth of his age and discovery of his true years came like a thunderbolt.

There was only one thing for his superiors to do—to give him his discharge.

They recognized the spirit that prompted the boy to do what he had done, so it was an honorable discharge.

But that was no consolation to the youngster. While many of his elders worried about the draft that so soon may call them to service and sought ways and means to avoid it, young Chalk brooded over the fact that he was big enough, strong enough, willing enough to serve, but too young.

No one can look into a 16-year-old's heart and see the immensity of the grief that follows frustration of a life's dream.

NOTE TO HIS MOTHER

It's just as big a tragedy at that moment as any adult ever encounters in later life. And the 16-year-old hasn't had the experiences of the adult with which to balance things at that moment.

This youngster went to the apartment of a sister, Mrs. Hazel Shepard, in Prospect st., Cambridge.

He penned a note to "The Best Mother in the World" and he tried to tell her all about it. On his breast, when they found him dead from the gas that poured out of the kitchen range jets, was his honorable discharge.

MRS. MILDRED JOYCE CHANDLER Sobs at "Three-in-a-Bed" Divorce Hearing

(Boston Evening American Photo)

3-in-a-Bed Wife Sobs Story in Court

Blonde, 20-year-old Mrs. Mildred Joyce Chandler burst into sobs and collapsed in Middlesex Probate Court today as she cried out:

"Yes, I did! I forgave him everything!"

She had just related her own version of the "three-in-a-bed" incident that has featured the hearing of the divorce action brought by Milton H. Chandler, 24, son of a prominent Boston business man.

The young mother of a son and twin girls had, under questioning by her counsel, Atty. John W. King, denied charges by her husband that she had ever threatened to "get him" while he was asleep.

DENIES NUDE PARTY

She denied in toto the story of a nude swimming party already read into the record of the case. She denied having lots of boy friends.

She told in detail the story of the "three-in-a-bed" incident she charges took place on the stormy night of Feb. 16 and then came her dramatic admission that she had forgiven it.

A young couple who were not named, because the girl in question is now married, were visiting the Chandlers and were unable to get their auto out of the garage because of the snow, Mrs. Chandler said.

"My husband suggested that the young man sleep on a divan, and he did. There was no other place for the girl but in our bed," she testified.

IN EACH OTHER'S ARMS

"When we went to bed, she took an outside place with me between my husband and her."

"It was when I went out later to the bathroom that he made love to her. I was coming out of the bathroom and I thought I heard him say 'S-sh' but I had been under the impression they were both asleep. I did notice they had moved together."

"But I got into bed and then, while I was half-asleep, I heard the girl say something endearing to him."

"I jumped out of bed and pulled off the bedclothing. They were in each other's arms. I ran

U. S. Near War Now Moley Warns Here

Warning that the United States is much closer to war than most people realize, Raymond Moley, ex-brain truster and one-time confidant of President Roosevelt, told Boston Republicans today the number one issue of the campaign was to keep the country out of war.

Addressing a conference of the Republican finance committee at the Chamber of Commerce, Moley said he was opposing his former chief because:

"I don't approve of this idea of talking about the inevitability of war."

Explaining his support of Wendell L. Willkie, Moley told the conference:

"I'm for Willkie because I believe he'll conduct our foreign relations better than Roosevelt has or will."

Referring to current differences of opinion as to the attitude the United States should assume toward Japan, the ex-brain truster said:

"Anyone who says we ought to fight Japan is extremely foolish. Such a move would not be beneficial to the interests of this country. There is no need for getting into war with Japan."

In such a war Moley explained, the U. S. would be unable to protect itself on the Atlantic and at the same time aid England legitimately.

"You can't expect to have all your eggs in the Pacific and have eggs left with which to help England in the Atlantic," Moley told his audience.

Moley said that one reason for confusion over sending 'flying fortresses' to England was the lack of power vested in the defense council.

Draft Snarl Hinted In Lack of Director

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—With conscription registration day rapidly drawing near, selective service officials privately expressed concern today over reports that President Roosevelt might delay appointment of a draft director until after the November election.

Although the machinery is virtually ready for the registration of some 16,500,000 men on Oct. 16, officials said lack of a director with full power to make decisions was hampering them somewhat.

"Some decisions are reached by exhaustion," one official of the joint army-navy selective service committee said, "when one side or the other in a controversy gives in."

HERSHEY LACKS TITLE

Lt.-Col. Lewis B. Hershey, a member of the committee, has been assigned by the President to exercise the functions of the director, but he does not have even the title of acting director. Friends of Hershey had been advocating that he be placed in full charge of the conscription program because of his familiarity with all aspects of the work, born of several years study and service as a member of the joint committee.

Others in the War Department have been urging that the post be given to Maj. Gen. Edward Gullion, who had a prominent part in supervision of the World War draft and who ranks Hershey. Gullion is now judge advocate general.

President Roosevelt indicated recently, however, he had a civilian in mind but was uncertain whether the man could serve. Later, word spread that the Chief Executive might postpone an appointment until after election day.

As an instance of some of the difficulties and delays arising from the lack of a director, officials cited the trouble they had had in reaching agreement on regulations covering classification of men for service and training of the draftees.

BOARD OBJECTS
After working past midnight recently on one of many revised versions of the regulations, committee attaches said they thought they had disposed of the matter only to find that their work did not meet the approval of the advisory committee set up by the President which, officials said, seemed to be serving in place of a director.

The regulations ultimately were completed and sent to the White House and informed sources said they probably would be approved and made public early this week. During the week, the President also is expected to select most of the 6500 local draft boards which will supervise the Oct. 16 registration.

1500 Open Drive For Sallies' Fund

More than 1500 workers went into action today as the annual Greater Boston maintenance appeal of the Salvation Army opened its drive to obtain $200,000.

The campaign is headed by Damon E. Hall, general chairman, aided by Ernest A. Johnson, as vice-chairman, and John E. Wilson, acting as head of the industry and finance division.

In Cambridge a separate organization started its hunt for $12,000 while in Somerville the quo sought is $3000.

William A. Nicol, campaign director, announces the headquarters of the appeal will be at 41 Pearl st. Donations may be mailed to the treasurer of the campaign, Allan Forbes, president of State Street Trust Co.

Malden Crash Snaps Hydrant

Crashing with an impact which startled scores of nearby residents from their sleep, two cars collided at Charles and Pearl sts., Malden, today and caused a miniature flood when one of the machines broke off a hydrant.

Dorothy Koonos, 19, of Main st., Malden, received severe back injuries and was taken to the Malden Hospital. Police said she was riding with Edward Zarick, 22, of "Lora" ave., Malden, whose auto swerved against a curbing after the collision, then continued on and rammed the hydrant. The operator of the second machine, police said, was Joseph Enos, 33, of Eastern ave., Ma den.

TRIES FOR 7 YEARS TO REVIVE CORPSE

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 7 (AP)—Police pieced together today the strange story of a 70-year-old man they accused of keeping in his bedroom for seven years the preserved body of a young woman whom he hoped to restore to life.

MARITAL WOE

The man, a medical expert in X-ray, holding degrees from Leipzig University in Germany, was booked as Karl Tanzler Van Cosel and was charged with removing the body of the 19-year-old woman from its grave without permission.

Van Cosel was quoted by Deputy Sheriff Ray Elwood:

"I did not want one so beautiful to go to dust.

"I tried experiments to restore her to life. I hope still if I live long enough to bring her back."

HOW HE STOLE BODY

Van Cosel declared he visited the crypt in which the young matron's body lay, and, about two years after her death, decided to take the body away.

He said he secretly transferred it to Key West's U. S. marine hospital, to which he had ready access as a former X-ray employee, and there treated the body chemically for a week to restore decomposed parts.

Then, secreting the remains in an old airplane he had purchased, he had it trucked to his home in a remote section of this island community and applied beeswax to protect the outer tissue. He expressed a firm hope that inner cells could be reactivated with X-ray treatments.

BESIDE HIS BED

His professed labor of love was interrupted yesterday when sheriff's deputies armed with a warrant entered his home and discovered the secret.

Elwood said the body, clad in a silken robe with a veil over the face, lay in a single bed near a bed on which the elderly man slept. Gold bracelets were on the wrists and an artificial rose in her hair.

Van Cosel was an X-ray expert at the hospital to which the young woman was taken nine years ago for treatment of tuberculosis. He became enamored.

Daily, the aging man spent hours in the vault.

"Then one day," Deputy Elwood quoted him, "I opened her coffin and found that the body was decaying. I did not want one so beautiful to go to dust. I stole the body about two years after she died and have had it with me ever since."

A member of the woman's family became suspicious, and upon a visit to Van Cosel's home, had a glimpse of the body on the bed. Elwood said Van Cosel readily admitted having the body. It was taken to an undertaking establishment, where attendants said he had done an excellent job of preserving the resemblance of the woman.

BLISS? NOT FOR BIG BILL; KILLS ZOO MATE

6 SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7 (AP)—The bliss which city officials hoped would prelude Fleishacker zoo's residents in their new "natural habitat" soured Big Bill, a cantankerous polar bear.

While hundreds of persons gathered yesterday to watch dedication ceremonies of the $2,000,000 animal home, Big Bill suddenly went mad, attacked and killed his mate, Min, and then held her body under water and snarled defiance at the crowd.

F. D. PLOT ON PRESS CHARGED

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 7 (AP)—Arthur Krock, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, warned the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors today against efforts he said "may soon be made" to restrict the American press.

In an address prepared for a luncheon meeting of the society, he accused the national administration of "the viewpoint that the press is untruthful and unfair," and added:

"Like any statute, the Bill of Rights can be made to conform to a new prevailing philosophy and political purposes. From my personal experience during seven years I do not trust the current philosophy when applied to the ancient freedom of the press."

Krock said that while "many American governments have gone to war with at least a section of the press," these were "amateurs by comparison."

"The New Deal," he asserted, "has perfected a formula. 'Its basis is the President's press conference . . . First layer imposed on the basis of the press conference consists of official favors surreptitiously extended to syndicated columnists who are 'sympathetic.' . . ."

"The next layer in the structure is composed of the battalion of government press agents. They work night and day, at public expense, to circulate every federal act in favorable terms, to gloss over errors and to conceal what for any reason is not desired to be known."

"The capstone was set in place by the President himself. It is composed of technical denials of substantially true news stories and steady implications that the press is unreliable and often venal."

Krock said the American newspaper and its makers, "in repayment for liberties without parallel, must seek and deserve the friendship of the public alone, to whom the government belongs."

Distributors Hear F. D. Defense Aim

Under modern conditions effective defense must be total defense comprised of industrial, agricultural and standard of living factors as well as military and naval factors, President Roosevelt today wired the 12th Boss Conference on Distribution.

The President's message read to business, industrial, agricultural and standard of living factors as well as military and naval factors, President Roosevelt today wired the 12th Boss Conference on Distribution.

Other messages were received from W. L. MacKenzie Kipling, minister of Canada; Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones.

F. D.'S MESSAGE

The President asserted in his message that:

"New responsibility of the defense program places upon the distributors of America are additional to those of ordinary times and do not replace them. The American standard of living—that primary weapon of our defense—must not be lowered through our failure to do the job which total defense imposes."

Prime Minister MacKenzie, noting that Canada and Great Britain were represented by speakers at the conference, added:

"It cannot be too often emphasized that the discussion of common problems and the reaffirmation of common ideal between the English-speaking peoples will inevitably stimulate the present hope and assure the ultimate realization of sanity, decency and good faith in the relations between man and man and nation and nation."

Other speakers told the distribution experts that prevention of price inflation, elimination of production bottlenecks and the expediting of raw material and merchandise shipments are war-created challenges which must be mastered.

George J. Feldman, Washington attorney and economist, said distribution faces a test of responsibility which it failed to meet in the World War and declared:

"Upon it is thrust the burden of maintaining the free flow of goods to the home front; of effectuating wartime governmental control of summer prices and supplies, and of helping to stem the tide of possible inflation."

The English experience with the distribution during the war and the present situation of Britain were pictured for the conference by Sir Louis Beale, member of the British purchasing commission.

Declaring that Britain had placed approximately $2,000,000,000 in orders in the U. S., including contracts taken over from the French, Sir Louis asserted that:

"Inexhaustible resources, supported by the machine industry of the United States, insure us, in the end, of an overwhelming mass of power," adding that "a great many of the manufacturers' deliveries are ahead of schedule."

Beale said that the commission is maintaining close contact with the U. S. government in that British purchasing policy and practice shall not conflict with the best interests of American economy.

Strip-Teasers Face Trial

Judge Jennie Loltman Barron in municipal court today issued complaints charging three strip-tease burlesque queens of Waldron's Casino in Hanover st. with participating in an immoral show as a result of their entertainment last week.

Edward Ryan, manager of the theater, was charged with conducting an immoral show and arraigned immediately before Judge Joseph Riley pleaded not guilty and was permitted his freedom until Friday, when the case will be heard.

Judge Barron issued the complaints after exhaustive research, including a two-hour conference with police and City Censor John Spencer and a private view of the girls act.

The girls are Patricia James, Elvety Dunder and Faith Arlington.

Axis Armies Invade Rumania in Oil Grab

ing or has been made regarding Baku is not clear.

The position of Turkey, whose relations with the Reich are not yet considered satisfactory by Berlin, is now believed certain to become questionable. There were predictions that Turkey may find herself faced with a crisis in the near future.

In addition, authentic German quarters indicated, the Axis powers probably will move in "Blitz" fashion in "several places during the next few weeks" as a result of the Brenner Pass rendezvous between Hitler and Mussolini.

GENERAL PAVED WAY

In connection with the movement of German troops into Rumania, these same circles revealed that a German general went to Rumania some time ago to prepare the ground.

It was assumed that a large German military staff also is in Rumania, so that little time will be lost in carrying out the present project. Commenting on this development, German sources said:

"England should know that we never rest. When we give a guarantee we mean it in all seriousness. We don't just give a paper promise."

Details as to the actual number of troops going to Rumania were not revealed, but observers said that by sending forces to the south-east Germany might cooperate with Italy in forming a military "pincher" against the British in the Mediterranean region.

London Expects Axis To Invade Greece

LONDON, Oct. 7 (INS)—Lacking immediate confirmation, London today cabled Bucharest for information regarding reports German troops have entered Rumania.

But informed British sources said they considered such a German move extremely likely, and that it had been expected sooner or later.

London quarters added that alleged protection of Rumania's oil fields probably would serve as an excuse to cover a slowly growing pincer movement to the east by the Axis.

It was felt that Italy will launch a new Egyptian drive when enough German forces are concentrated in Rumania to sweep toward Turkey, either across Greece with Italian aid or across Bulgaria with that country's permission.

This line of reasoning was accepted in London as one possible outgrowth of the Brenner Pass meeting between Hitler and Mussolini.

British circles emphasized that Turkey is the only solid barrier along this "line of least resistance" in which were termed Axis plans for a "grandiose drive to the East."

In the face of the German move, it was stated, Britain will stand by her guarantee to Rumania, although her forced in the Middle East are needed to protect British interests in Egypt, the Suez canal, Palestine and Iraq.

There was intense speculation in neutral circles regarding Russia's attitude toward the reported German troop movement into Rumania.

ELsie ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

British May Reopen Burma Road to China

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill is preparing to announce "within the next few days" a British decision to reopen the Burma road to China, it was reported reliably today.

The report said the United States would be consulted and Soviet Russia would be kept informed.

No News Is Big News In London

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—A night's sleep made streamer headlines today in this city of cat-naps amid the din of air siege.

In its first edition the Evening Standard streamlined:

"London sleeps soundly in quietest night for month."
No bombs fell from dusk to dawn for the first time in 36 nights.

Number 7, an arsenal at Watervliet, N. Y., which is stepping up production of guns for the army and navy, topped President Roosevelt's program today.

Preparing to sign an excess profits tax bill, Mr. Roosevelt reserved the forenoon for studying the measure. It is designed to hold down profits on war materials orders and prevent the creation of preparedness program millionaires.

The President arranged to leave for Watervliet by train shortly after noon and put in about an hour looking over an establishment which is operating around the clock and turning out 37 millimeter to 16-inch guns.

A 15-mile motor tour planned for the chief executive included a stop at Saratoga battlefield, on the 163d anniversary of an engagement in which the Americans, after defeating a British army under Gen. John Burgoyne

Jersey City Cheers Wilkie, Boos Hague

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 7 (AP)—A crowd which filled Journal sq. from curb to curb greeted Wendell L. Wilkie and booed the name of Mayor Frank Hague today as the Republican nominee for President invaded Hague's stronghold on his first New Jersey appearance.

"We cannot afford to risk a departure from our traditional system of free government at home."

Ely Paves Way For Wilkie N. E. Visit

William E. Sewell, who as Hudson county commissioner of elections is leading the Republican fight against the Democratic state leader here, estimated the crowd at 15,000.

On the eve of a smashing New England invasion, Wendell Wilkie today was cheered by a third time attack from Joseph B. Ely, former Democratic governor.

"In order to clean up this state, I urge the election of my very dear friend," State Sen. Robert C. Hendrickson, the party's candidate for governor.

Former Gov. Ely lauded the broadside against President Roosevelt's campaign for a third term and virtually announced that Wilkie would get his support and vote.

Aerial bombs created such a din Wilkie could not be heard until the firing was silenced by a plea from the platform.

Wilkie moved on to his motor tour of New England today from Jersey City which is to be climaxed by his address at Braves Field on Friday night.

He drove here in a mile-long motorcade from a Hoboken ferry terminal along a route heavily guarded by police.

Coming to New Bedford early on that day, the Wilkie cavalcade will swing through Fall River, Taunton and Brockton prior to a luncheon at the Hotel Somerset here.

As thoroughly Democratic a neighborhood as any in the state, it gave the black-haired Republican candidate a good-natured but unexcited greeting, mingling cheers for Wilkie with occasional yells for President Roosevelt.

In the afternoon, Lann and Salmon included on his itinerary before he returns for his evening address at Braves Field. The day following, he will greet supporters and crowds at Lawrence, Haverhill, Lowell, Worcester, Springfield and Pittsfield before he journeys on to Albany.

HITS ONE-MAN RULE

Thirty-five state troopers escorted the motorcade, while 100 Hoboken and 600 Jersey City policemen patrolled his route. The greatest concentration was at Journal sq., here, where the nominee declared "no one man should be able to control a city" and called on Jersey City residents to protect their civil liberties.

Wilkie was designating Oct. 23 as "No Third Term Day" even as former Gov. Ely was following up with a radio address attack here on that very issue. The latter also expressed fears that the big army now in process of conscription was being prepared to aid England in an annihilation of Germany.

Wilkie rode in an open automobile, accompanied by his wife and his brother, Edward.

WARPLANES OPEN NEW LONDON RAIDS

ESSEN MAGNATE DEAD

er flying across the capital from west to east.

Eastbourne, on the Sussex coast south of London, was visited by raiders which swooped low to spray the town with machine-gun fire. Towns on the Kent coast were bombed.

The third daylight alarm was sounded in the London area as German planes, flying singly, and by twos and threes, flew over the southeastern part of the city and also over the southwest coast.

Bursts of machine-gun and anti-aircraft fire told of brief battles during the second and third raids, and apparently the bombers were driven off.

But later they returned over a southwestern London district, and were met by ground fire and British fighters.

20,000 FEET HIGH
The Germans took advantage of brilliant sunshine which succeeded thick clouds and storms yesterday and last night, when air activity was greatly reduced.

The first day raiders were seen streaking at 20,000 feet over the east coast, bursts of anti-aircraft riving them.

Some bombs were dropped by the first planes. Windows of a convent where 12 nuns were praying were smashed. The nuns were unhurt.

Bombs fell in two southeastern sections of London during the second alarm of the morning there. Raiders were reported to have encountered fierce anti-aircraft fire. Much of the air fighting over the southeast coast broke up quickly into individual combats.

A long, yellow-nosed Messerschmitt attacked the harbor lights at Dover, swooping within 100 feet of the houseposts. Two balloons near the waterfront fell in flames.

Two Spitfires were reported to have shot down a twin-engine German bomber off the southeast coast.

London's anti-aircraft guns roared into action just before dawn after a night of silence.

Even the pre-dawn alarm was brief and the quartering sun laid silent scorn when a German plane believed on a reconnaissance flight over the northwestern outskirts of the city, disappeared.

BRITISH IN ATTACK

From Dover word came that brilliant sunshine followed a stormy night on Dover Strait and the sea was calm today. A fresh southeasterly breeze was blowing. Mist veiled the French coast.

Sources at the United States Embassy in London said last night the Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy has asked Washington to send another ship for removal of non-Americans from Britain as the air war continues.

Bomb Lull Lets British Map Offensive on Nazis

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—London, cooled by its first respite from bombing in 31 nights, looked hopefully today to England's own counter-offensive in aviation plan of air attacks intended to cripple Germany as British ground forces drive the Nazis back past their own frontiers.

Predictions that Britain will ease the offensive in land operations on the continent when—according to plan—the RAF will have broken down the Nazi Luftwaffe, backed with reports of widespread German night attacks during the week.

The huge Krupp munitions works at Essen, important industrial centers in Germany, and the Nazi-held ports along the channel coast were reported bombed heavily.

Forecasters of a British offensive from the air ministry, Lord Cuff, undersecretary for war, and the Daily Express, published by Lord Beaverbrook, minister in air, said production.

Lord Cuff, who said the British would attack when German air power and war production have been crushed, estimated that there has been "a far greater casualty list" among Germans of the so-called invasion ports "than anything we have suffered from since the last of British attacks on Great Britain."

MANY GERMANS KILLED?

He declared "it is highly probable" that British bombs have killed many Germans in German factories, thus the latest of British civilians and added.

"It is believed that 10 days ago a single British submarine sent more German soldiers to their doom than all British deaths caused by German airmen in the whole month of August."

The British Press Association reported that last night, however, the British bombers "did not make their customary visits to Germany and German-occupied territories" because of unfavorable weather.

The weather was said to have been so bad that accurate bombing would have been impossible. Lord Beaverbrook's Express predicted the next phase of the war would be "the hurrying against Germany of the strength of the English."

Britain Orders All Children From Gibraltar

ALGECIRAS, Spain, Oct. 7 (AP)—British authorities at Gibraltar were reported here today to have ordered compulsory removal of all children from the fortress and to have announced that members of families failing to comply by tomorrow will be fined or imprisoned.

speaking world expressed misgivings.

The newspaper declared 1,000 women for Britain already in training in the dominions and the empire's air plan aimed at an output of 30,000 pilots a year from Canadian schools alone.

The air ministry said RAF bases at Germany, following a meter plan already have cut out German warplane production, thereby hampered communication of hit at plants producing warplanes in Germany's aircraft industry in 1939-1940.

Walsh Spikes Report Ex-Aide for Willie

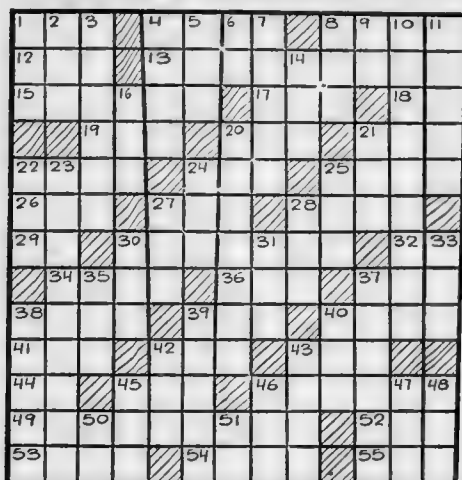

Simon Walsh, O. J. McSwain's aide, denied today a statement by an independent group supporting Henry Parkman, Jr., the Republican opponent, that one of three former secretaries had induced Parkman.

In a telegram, Walsh asserted that Henry Chumchuck, Jr., the man in question, "has never been employed by me at any time or in any other capacity."

'LADY IN WAITING' PREMIERE TONIGHT ON WILBUR STAGE 17

EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1940

GLADYS GEORGE plays the exuberant of "Lady in Waiting," Margery Sharp's comedy based on her popular novel "The Nutmeg Tree," opening tonight at the Wilbur.

LOUIS CALHERN and Dorothy Gish are Father and Mother Day of that best-selling comedy, "Life With Father," which is making box-office history at the Civic Repertory Theater just as it is in New York, Chicago and Baltimore.

BETTY HUTTON is in the Ethel Merman-starring "Panama Hattie," the B. G. DeSylva production opening tomorrow night at the Shubert Theater.

Premiere Tonight at Wilbur

An involved treadmill which shifts its floor from aristocratic Philadelphia to the razzle-dazzle of a Central nightspot is responsible for pushing back the "Panama Hattie," coming to tomorrow night and leaving the field clear tonight for "The George and 'Lady in Waiting'."

Miss George, the incredible screen star of "Personal Appearance," heads the cast of "Lady in Waiting," Margery Sharp's sprightly comedy based on her popular novel, "The Nutmeg Tree." It opens tonight at the Wilbur with the original cast, including Alan Napier from New York's Martin Beck Theater.

The piece de resistance of "The Nutmeg Tree," as you may recall, is Julia, a widow still young but old enough to have a somewhat priggish laughter who has been brought up "properly" by her austere parents. At daughter's request, Julia has come to pass judgment on the former's suitor. In route, Julia becomes involved with a fascinating trapeze artist, which is only the beginning of a series of embarrassing romantic entanglements.

Abbott to Bring Comedy Here

Initiating his production season here, George Abbott will present "The White-Haired Boy," the new comedy by Charles Martin and Beatrice Kaufman, at the Plymouth Theater for one week beginning Monday, Oct. 28, prior to Broadway opening.

"The White-Haired Boy" is reported to spoof in satiric George Abbott vein several of our contemporary young playwrights. This is the second play of which Beatrice Kaufman is co-author. Her first, written with Mary Kennedy in 1934, was called "Divided by Three." In private life she is the wife of George S. Kaufman, famous playwright who has just been in Boston with his and Moss Hart's "George Washington Slept Here."

Cycling Theme Of Paris Style

The latest word on the oddest style-to-be in France came today from Mme. Elsa Schiaparelli, in Boston for an appearance at a benefit luncheon. When she returns to her Paris home in December, the fashion expert said she will design styles for riding a bicycle, morning and evening.
 The disappearance of the auto from the smart life of France has made it necessary for women to go about on bicycles, she explained. "Women need clothes in France, and so, according to their needs I shall make them," she said.

Madamie Schiaparelli was scheduled to appear at the Florence Crittenton League benefit luncheon session tomorrow before the Boston Conference on Distribution at Hotel Statler.

LEHMAN DEFINES THE ISSUE!

By CARLISLE BARGERON
(Assigned by Republican National Committee)

At the outset of this campaign, Mr. Willkie hoped that the foreign situation would not be drawn in. The reason for this is very simple. The foreign situation is very delicate. It is something about which there should be very little talking on the part of politicians. Regardless of what he does, whether he is right or wrong, Mr. Roosevelt is our President until next January. He is responsible.

In order that there would be the appearance of unity behind the President, in order that his hands would be strengthened, Mr. Willkie, in effect, said to him:

"You seem to be reluctant to do anything about conscription because of its political effect. Let's take this subject out of the campaign. I join with you on this question. I join with you on the proposition of extending aid to Britain."

We have previously pointed out that when Mr. Roosevelt had the opportunity to co-operate with Mr. Hoover in 1933 on the matter of the London Economic Conference, that he flippantly refused to do so.

But in spite of what Mr. Willkie has done, in spite of his trying to keep the foreign situation out of the campaign, the New Dealers insist upon bringing it in. They insist that Mr. Willkie's election will "please" Hitler.

Very well, Governor Lehman, you have asked for it. You reiterate your charges that Mr. Willkie's victory will be a Hitler victory. You say that Mr. Willkie, himself, is O. K. on the foreign question, but that the Republican party as a whole is not.

Now, Governor, you owe it to the people to tell them exactly what you mean: Notwithstanding, Mr. Willkie's support of conscription, the majority of the Republicans in Congress were against it. Well, conscription has now been voted. It is the law of this land.

Furthermore, it is the established policy of this Government, with the approval of Republicans, to extend aid SHORT OF WAR to Britain.

Republicans have unanimously voted for a 15 billion dollar defense program.

Governor, these being the facts, what do you foresee in a Republican victory? What is it that displeases you?

What is it that the New Dealers will do if elected, but which the Republicans won't do?

You use that term "isolationist" right loosely, Governor. But to let you apply it as you will, you see "isolationist" Republicans holding Mr. Willkie back from WAR, even if he were minded that way.

You can't see them holding him back from "short of war aid to Britain." You can't see them holding him back from National Defense. These are DEFINITELY SETTLED policies of this Government.

Your dread, Governor, is that they will HOLD HIM BACK FROM WAR.

Governor, you've got something there. Your dread is warranted.

The record seems to be very clear that if Mr. Willkie should become war minded, which he won't, that those "damned isolationist Republicans" will hold him back.

Governor, the cards are unmistakably stacked against the War Mongers in the event of Mr. Willkie's winning. They are perfectly justified in turning Heaven and Earth to defeat him.

Isn't that right, Governor?

You seem to have well defined an issue, Governor. You did it, not us. It is clear that a VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT IS A VOTE FOR WAR!

Governor, the words you New Dealers use have always fascinated us. For example, you talk about "coherent"—a "coherent" national defense policy is what you say you've got. A few days ago, Mr. Roosevelt pulled off a "brilliant" stroke of world leadership. He embargoed shipments of scrap iron to Japan. Shipments of practically everything else Japan needs are still going forward.

Well, this terrifically "bold" leadership on Mr. Roosevelt's part was met with an alliance of Japan, Hitler and Mussolini.

Then, Governor, that Good-neighbor of ours to the South, Mexico, announced she had scrap iron to sell to Japan. Governor, is it just a big game Mr. Roosevelt and his fellow world leaders are playing?

WILLKIE MUDDLES FOREIGN POLICY

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

The Republican nominee for President has now arrived at that stage of mental befuddlement which so often engulfs a candidate trying to face both ways at the same time. Something is needed to give his sagging campaign a little more drive and lift.

So he fixed on foreign policy as the lifting derrick. He wants to pin the label of "war party" on the Democrats in the hope of snaring the so-called isolationist vote. But he is deathly afraid of offending the huge mass of citizens who heartily approve Roosevelt's superb handling of international affairs.

The result was the Cleveland speech, a hodge-podge of charges and contradictions which the nominee must have read to his bewildered audience with tongue in cheek. He charged the Roosevelt Administration with torpedoing the London Economic Conference (wrong), promoting the surrender of democracy at Munich (wrong), and failure to build up American defenses (wrong). Then he polished off by approving the Roosevelt policy of extending aid to Britain as the surest means of slaying off potential enemies from these shores.

A leading newspaper recently published an editorial asking "Is there a Willkie?" The writer was suffering from jangled wits and frayed nerves after attempting to unravel and disentangle the Willkie foreign policy. He reasoned that perhaps there were two Republican nominees for President instead of one.

Of course, there is a Willkie, even though the misgivings of the editorial writer may have been understandable. But this question is pertinent. Did Willkie ever hear of the Republican Party?

A DANGEROUS SPLIT

Everyone appreciates that during the next four years, the United States will be compelled to thread its way through a world dominated to a large extent by predatory powers seeking more gains, more territory, and more plunder at the expense of neighboring nations. The foreign policy of America must be clear, positive and vigorous.

Yet in the event of a Willkie victory, the key men in Congress controlling Republican policy will be diametrically opposed to the policy espoused by the man in the White House. Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, is the ranking minority member on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Johnson is a rabid isolationist and just behind him on the committee are Vandenberg of Michigan, and Shipstead of Minnesota, a former Farmer-Laborite now back in the G. O. P. fold. These men have a potent supply of stumbling blocks, graded and sized, for any President who dares to propose extending aid to Britain.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee presents a more dismal picture. Ham Fish is bursting with impatience for the Republican victory which will make him chairman. He has a doughty ally in George Holden Tinkham, of Massachusetts, who is still mentally holding off the Redcoats at Lexington and Concord. Can the country stand four more years of the division and disunion which brought it to its knees under Herbert Hoover? Do the people want the irresponsible Ham Fish and all the little fishes directing and deciding their crucial relations with other countries?

When Candidate Willkie attempts to write the charge of unpreparedness on the Democratic doormat, he shows a sublime ignorance of the record of his adopted party. He overlooks the votes cast by his running-mate, Senator McNary, against increasing the air force and living up vital stocks of tin and rubber. He overlooks the effort of Senator Taft last Spring to cut down naval and military expenditures by 25 per cent. He overlooks the late Senator Borah's dictum that the strife in Europe was a phony war of no interest to the United States. He overlooks the efforts of Mr. Hoover to lull the nation into false security by predicting that victory for Hitler was impossible.

And, of course, in calling for an Army of 750,000, Willkie made no mention of the fact that the Republicans in Congress, under the guidance of his own leader, Joe Martin, voted against conscription. Willkie pledged "economic co-operation" with Latin-America after insulting Argentina by blasting the petty sale of $7500 of Argentine beef to the American Navy. He warned about potential dangers to the Panama Canal, forgetting that his own party held up the appropriation for a third set of canal locks, the purpose of which was to prevent the menacing situation he pictured.

Foreign relations would be a hodge-podge with Willkie in the White House. The country can't afford to take the gamble.

POLITICAL controversy reached a "new low" in this country when Henry A. Wallace, the Roosevelt-appointed nominee for Vice President, opened the "Democratic" national campaign by asserting in effect that Wendell L. Willkie is Adolf Hitler's candidate for the Presidency of the United States.

Henry did relatively little damage by his unfair and unjustifiable remark—except, of course, to the New Deal.

The public knows him by this time as perhaps the most fatuous individual of all the curious medley which rules at Washington. Really grave injury was inflicted upon the processes of democracy, however, when Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York REPEATED Former Secretary Wallace's scurrilous aspersion at the Democratic convention in his State.

Nor was it by any means "slip of the tongue" that Mr. Lehman did this.

We quote verbatim from the Governor's PREPARED address:

"Let there be no mistake about this: Nothing that could happen in the United States could give Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and the Government of Japan more satisfaction than the defeat of the man who typifies to the whole world the kind of free, humane government which dictators despise—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

GOVERNOR LEHMAN
Americans Grieve to See Him
Aligned With Egg-Throwers
Kind of free, humane government which dictators despise—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

In its leading editorial on October 1, the New York Times protested that if Mr. Lehman's aspersion "says anything, it says that a vote for Willkie is a vote for Hitler."

"As a newspaper which has long been active in denouncing Hitler and in recommending aid for the European democracies which blocked his path—and a newspaper which is now supporting Mr. Willkie—we RESENT this implication.

"It is UNJUST, RECKLESS and CAPABLE OF DOING GREAT HARM to the very cause which Governor Lehman has at heart, and which we share with him.

"The implication is UNJUST because the record shows that Mr. Willkie has been JUST AS STRAIGHTFORWARD as Mr. Roosevelt in condemning Hitler and everything he stands for.

"It is RECKLESS because it attempts to arrogate patriotism for the Democratic ticket.

"It is CAPABLE OF DOING GREAT HARM if it is pressed: At home, by dividing the American people; abroad, by inviting the world to interpret the election of Mr. Willkie as evidence that the American people want to 'give satisfaction' to Hitler."

On the same day, the New York Sun, remarking chaotically that Governor Lehman had "lifted a page from Henry A. Wallace's book," paralleled the Times' editorial in this way:

"Mr. Lehman may now realize the truth of this judgment and the folly into which he was led by the PROPAGANDISTS who PEDDLE DIRT for the THIRD-TERM CANDIDACY."

WENDELL L. WILKIE does not need others to defend him when slurs and slanders are cast against him.

His prompt reply, issued in Michigan, to Governor Lehman's implied accusation that Mr. Willkie is Hitler's choice was devastating.

"The innuendo in this statement," said Mr. Willkie, "is FALSE, MALICIOUS and SUBVERSIVE.

"Whatever may be the explanation of Mr. Lehman's words, they tend to destroy the unity of this country and they challenge in flagrant fashion the principles upon which I have done my level best to conduct this campaign."

Shortly after Henry Wallace made the original statement against Mr. Willkie, he really publicly apologized for it.

Should Governor Lehman now do any less?

On this very point, Mr. Willkie has well said:

"Mr. Lehman, as Governor of New York, and an intimate friend of the President and in his personal character as an American citizen, has a threefold and grave responsibility.

"I therefore REQUEST HIM to make it clear at once and without equivocation that he did not intend, and does not intend, to impute to me any other attitude than that of a defender of Democracy."

But instead of doing so, Governor Lehman, in a rejoinder, has merely COMPOUNDED THE OFFENSE by accusing Mr. Willkie of "distorting" his plain statement.

Surely, every American who believes in honor and fair play is grieved to see the Governor of a great State align himself with the egg-throwing brats who have disgraced the American hustings.

On The Side

HAS BEEN wisely stated by an observing person: "The present is the age of the woman who can use her eyes with effect. The birth of love is in the eyes. More women have been loved for their eyes and their smile than for their complexion" . . . How does a dog tell one automobile horn from another? Even when the horns are on cars of the same make. We lived in a house near a turn in the road. All drivers sounded their horns at this turn. Dozens of horns would sound and our pup would sit quietly but as soon as my girl friend came along and sounded the horn the pup would jump up and run to the door, wagging his tail violently.

EUROPEANS often consider soup a meal in itself. They may be right. If soup is good it fills you up so you cannot enjoy the rest of the meal. Especially vegetable soup . . . "Jeffrey Lynn signs his letters 'Rags,'" says Film Fan magazine item. Isn't that ducky? . . . As types go, the world's greatest "Gomph Girls" are the Italian blondes from around Milan . . . The artist Ciotto drew a circle with a single stroke. You try it . . . Cartoonist E. C. Segar, creator of Popeye, had an income of $400,000 a year. One of Mr. Segar's favorite diversions was to hire a taxi, take over the wheel and drive the cabman around town.

HAVE YOU NOTICED, Sir, that happy days are here again? The research experts on the cost of living say they are. Their story is that while the cost of living has not gone up much,

"THE BIRTH OF LOVE IS IN THE EYES"
Erudite Reader So Informs Columnist Durling

wages have gone up very much . . . Some women take their husbands' coats and have them made over for their own use. Understand in many cases this results in a coat which is better looking on a woman than if it had been originally made for feminine wear. Gentlemen, we'd better watch our coats. I saw my girl friend eyeing my elegant tweed coat this morning. You can imagine my anxiety when I tell you this coat cost me seventy-five bucks.

SINCE the alliance, a Nazi writer wrote something disparaging about Italian women. To which Paolo Monelli, an Italian, replied in print as follows: "Nazi women are docile. They have red, swollen hands, pimples, straight hair, no make-up and smell of laundry and cheap tooth paste. They are ugly and flirtatious and have fat legs" . . . Several years ago when New York's Sixth Avenue elevated was torn down, the buyer of the resulting scrap iron had to promise not to sell it to Japan. Evidently there has been for some time a feeling against such practice.

"You quote a high school boy as criticizing high school girls for wearing dirty white shoes," writes a young woman of Baltimore. "The girls wear dirty white shoes because that is the latest high school style."

FOUR LINE POEMS are extremely difficult to write. Yet Rebecca McCana wrote one every day for years. One of Rebecca's I particularly like is: It's not the things I fail to do That make me wipe this eye It's the things I should and could have done But simply failed to try.

WHY SHOULDN'T married women work if they want to? Why shouldn't a wife enjoy that feeling of economic independence which is one of life's greatest joys? Why shouldn't a woman have the comfort of thinking she is staying married for love and not to be supported? The idea that married women working lessens male employment may be a fallacy. It might even be possible married women working increases male employment.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Oct. 7—I lay in bed on my porch yesterday morning and watched the little yellow leaves drifting slowly down to the earth.

There is something rather helpless about these leaves as they drift slowly past the window. I often think they are very like us, strong and proud so long as they are lightly attached to the branch on which they grew, but rudderless once they leave that center of strength.

How strong we are so long as we have within us some central core of courage and conviction, and how weak and rudderless when that is shaken.

WE ALL ATTENDED the dedication of the schools Saturday and the President reaffirmed a belief which has always been ours in this country—that no dictatorship can take hold when there is free education. The point, however, is that it must be free and it must grow with the needs of the day.

I wonder, sometimes, whether we shall insist on keeping it free. Freedom must include the permission to examine and discuss unpopular subjects and a tolerant attitude towards those who think differently from the way the majority may think at the moment.

I think growth to meet the needs of the day has lagged in education during the past few years. We require open minds, for changes are needed and what they are we have not yet agreed upon.

Saturday evening we drove down to New York City to attend the pageant and concert presented by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in Madison Square Garden.

With rare foresight this union has put the arts to work. They have recognized the need which human beings have for bread and for dignity in labor, but they have also proved the need for inspiration and idealism. The arts answer this need. Labor needs music and marching songs. Labor needs the creative satisfaction gained through the drama, the dance, and many other avenues of self-expression.

A pageant on the nation's growth and based on Walt Whitman's poetry called "I Hear America Singing," was the high point of the evening. With labor's growth, the country has grown.

MY DAY

for, after all, labor is the country.

It is a curious distinction that we have made for ourselves between capital, as represented by people who handle money, and labor, as represented by people who do the actual work. We are all people and we must work to fulfill our destiny.

If only we would all recognize this fact and work together and make money for us all without division and as one great group of working people, what a different place our world would be.

"The girl over at that table is crazy to meet you." "I shouldn't wonder, I owe her six months' alimony."

WARDEN GIVES DOG TO PRISONER

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Last year the front pages reported the story of a mongrel named "Stooge," discovered at Sing Sing prison, where inmates are not permitted to have any dogs. "Stooge" had been trained by his inmate-owner to perform many tricks, and performed for Eleanor Roosevelt when she visited the prison. . . . Warden Lawes made an exception in the case of "Stooge," and permitted his owner to retain him. . . . That dog now is dead. He had become the pet of the Lawes household—and the Warden's other dogs resented it. One night "Stooge" managed to enter the kennel where Lawes' boxers are kept, and they killed the mongrel who had usurped their master's affections. . . . Lawes has presented another dog to the bereaved owner of "Stooge."

NOEL COWARD

TRAVEL DEPT.: Prince Vladimir Rachewsky, brother-in-law of Grand Duke Boris of Russia, arrived this week from France, where he had been living since the Russian revolution. . . . He was in Biarritz when the Germans arrived, and applied for a permit to leave the country. He submitted his papers and waited in line, outside the Nazi office—where other applicants had been waiting for days and weeks. Suddenly a messenger called him from the end of the line. "Prince Rachewsky, follow me," he was told. . . . Prepared for the worst, he was taken before the official in charge, who said: "Rachewsky, remember me?" . . . He shook his head. . . . The official removed his glasses and memory returned. In 1916 this German had been Rachewsky's prisoner. They had drunk vodka together every night. "Does this mean I can pass through?" asked the relieved Prince. "No, it means you must stay awhile," the Nazi informed. "We got drunk while I was your prisoner. So we must get drunk now that you are mine."

RADIO DEPT.: One of the British officials who lost his post during the Cabinet reshuffling had been in charge of propaganda broadcasts to Germany in the early stages of the war. Noel Coward, then working in Paris, listened to some of those propaganda broadcasts—which since have shown remarkable improvement. . . . Coward cabled his home office: "If you want to win this war by boring the Germans to death, all right—but I don't think we have the time."

HEALTH DEPT.: This story is being told at the War Dept., as indicative of the fairness with which the Conscription Act will be administered. . . . A 25-year-old man, anxious to avoid the last draft, was advised to see a voodoo healer. The healer accepted his fee, and then advised: "Here are some voodoo prayers. Recite them once upon arising, twice when you leave the house, and three times when you get to your office. Then reverse the process—three times when you leave the office, twice when you get home, and once before retiring. Then they won't draft you." . . . The young man followed instructions—but was drafted. He returned to the healer and related his plight. "And you followed my instructions?" asked the healer. "I can't understand it—how they could draft you, when you only have one lung left." . . . "But who said anything about one lung?" asked the draftee. "I'm in perfect health!" . . . "Oh, well, that's it then," explained the healer. "The prayers work only if you have one lung."

PERSONALS: A young lady in Manhattan received a love-note from her fiancé in London. That letter was censored. Inside the envelope she found this additional note: "Will an unknown accept the regrets of the one whom duty obliged to open the Most Perfect Letter. It seems like sacrifice that any third person should read it. Be assured of the absolute secrecy regarding what we read in our work."

EMPLOYMENT DEPT.: Walter Wanger, who is visiting here now, once employed Oscar Levant at his studio in Hollywood. . . . Levant was given an office in which he sat, baffled by the complexities of Hollywood life. After a few days he sent a note to Wanger, asking that the producer assign an assistant to him. "I won't give you an assistant," was Wanger's replying message, "because that would mean I'll be getting two indecisions, instead of one."

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: In the lack of a good football team, Yale has Cole Porter, an old grad, who currently is in our midst. . . . They report that the Porter name is the name to conjure with these days in the vicinity of the Yard. . . . Nat Dorfman and Abe Berman, one of the press-agents for "Panama Hattie" and Mr. Berman the business manager for B. G. De Sylva, the show's producer, used the music of the famous composer's name to "crash" the New Haven restaurant which serves only Elms, past and present.

THE RESTAURANT IS THE ONE founded by a Yalenian of the past century who thought New Haven needed a good restaurant where Yale men alone could safe their hunger. . . . Mr. Dorfman is a Columbia alumnus and Mr. Berman hails from a campus out West. . . . But they decided to risk the excellent chance of not being served, (and possible embarrassment) in a gamble that no questions would be asked.

THE QUESTIONS, HOWEVER, WERE asked. . . . Were the gentlemen from Yale? . . . No. . . . The headwaiter was in the middle of an explanation of the cafe's tradition, its articles of incorporation which expressly exclude all but Yale men, when Mr. Dorfman mentioned that Cole Porter had authorized them to say he sent them. . . . Three waiters, two captains, and four busboys made things pleasant from there in. (Addendum: Mr. Porter, composer of "Panama Hattie," was furious when the "crashers" confessed).

MUCH CONFUSION PREVAILS because "Panama Hattie's" opening has been postponed until tomorrow night. . . . The show is all right. . . . Actors' agents who accompanied the troupe from the layout town, New Haven, gave the surest auguries that the Ethel Merman vehicle is a success. . . . These fellows were all multiplying, and the multiplying in each problem was 52. . . . That is, they were multiplying their various 10 per cents of their meal tickets' salaries by the number of weeks in a year.

IT ISN'T THE QUALITY of the show, and the harrowing question of whether it's a hit or not a hit that's vexing all hands. . . . The postponement which caused the theater to call back opening night seats, and to make the necessary switches to take care of those who had purchased tickets for Tuesday (which is now opening night) . . . brought about the trouble. . . . Producer De Sylva had reserved a block of 100 tickets for himself and friends, for instance.

THE PUBLIC NOW has most of these, because the advance sale was heavy and the ticket brokers had cared for their customers, too. . . . Meantime, patrons who bought opening night seats are trying to swap them for Tuesday's performance, and Tuesday night purchasers are trying to hold onto theirs.

INCIDENTALLY, THE REASON ANNOUNCED for the postponement is the truth. . . . The show employs a pair of treadmills—"moving scenery" as this device was called when Arthur Hammerstein first introduced the gadget (in America) in "Good Boy," ten years ago. . . . Mr. Hammerstein had seen the thing worked in Berlin. It requires a crew of carpenters to slice a stage in breadwise slits for the device to work. . . . And the extra 24 hours was necessary for this operation.

BETTY HUTTON IS SAID to have two swell Porter songs, one of which she sings with Arthur Treacher. . . .

JUST A LITTLE SONG FOR TREACHER.
Maybe Ethel Merman has an Apple, too.

But qualified informants tell us that the comedy department, in which Producer De Sylva dared a long shot by resting this important burden on "Rags" Ragland, Pat Harrington and Frankie Ilyers, is in the best of hands. . . . The young veteran, Mr. Ragland, is predicted to be a "find."

MISS MERMAN PLAYS the role of a night club singer who falls in love with a Canal Zone attaché who has a motherless daughter (played by 8-year-old Joan Carroll), and the hero must be wealthy. . . . He keeps a governess for his daughter and—Arthur Treacher as a butler.

SYLVIA SYDNEY GETS 5-PICTURE OFFER

By Louella O. Parsons

Sylvia Sydney

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—Sylvia Sydney, who once left Hollywood and said she hoped never to return, has completely changed her mind. I guess that's what being really happy does for a gal. Sylvia is so in love with her husband, Luther Adler, and she is also a proud mother. Now the chances are that the Adlers will make their future home here, for Warners are talking a five-picture deal with Sylvia. They took a look at her rushes in "Carnival" and are completely sold on her.

Her next after "Carnival" will probably be "January Heights," Bette Davis' new movie. The two women roles are almost of equal importance and Bette always welcomes another actress of ability in her pictures. Sylvia is down to 104 pounds and Warners believe they can do for her what they did for Ida Lupino. Luther Adler arrives today and he will go to one of the major studios to discuss a producer's job. He was one of the stars of "Two on an Island," but he prefers to produce rather than act.

HERE is a surprise. A careful check of 18 major studios made by Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, for Y. Frank Freeman, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, reveals there are only 18 foreign actors employed in Hollywood. 18 out of 19,111 is certainly not very many. According to Mr. Thomson, the term means those persons who have come to the United States since Jan. 1, 1938, from any of the occupied countries or Germany or Italy. This payroll study does not include the group of non-American actors and other industry workers who have been in this country for several years under federal immigration permits. From the records of the Screen Actors Guild it is found that such non-citizens represent only four per cent of the applications for Guild membership as of Aug. 1, 1939.

MADELEINE CARROLL will never give a performance better than the one she gave on the air a few weeks ago. She put such feeling into her voice that it brought tears to the eyes of those who were listening to the British War Relief program. There was a reason for Madeleine's emotion for not only is her mother living near Dover but Count Richard De Larosier, the French aviator to whom she is engaged, is now in Vichy. Madeleine told me that she was never able to contact him but he finally wrote to her from Africa. Now he is in unoccupied territory, so she plans to try to go to him. She is leaving in a few days for Canada for the "Northwest Mounted" preview and from there she will tour through that country on personal appearances for the Red Cross. "And then," says Madeleine, "I'll get to Vichy some way."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Constance Bennett telephoned from Reno to say that she has taken a house and will live there until after her divorce. She is keeping the settlement she made with the Marquis very quiet but I happen to know she gave him property in France which she owned and some valuable pearls; was that Cheryl Wallace, Earl Carter's heart-beat, with Conrad Nagel at the Bar of Music? It looked very much like her; Maureen O'Hara and John Shelton have discovered each other.

MARY MARTIN is the only girl I know who could rejoice over seven pounds added poundage; Ida Lupino is wearing a gorgeous new antique amethyst ring, the gift of her husband, Louis Hayward; Betty Grable and Vic O'Shannon are seeing a lot of each other these days; the Jack Bennys are picking houses in Palm Springs.

WESLEY RUGGLES and his bride have been vaccinated and are now ready for that South American jaunt; John Scott Weissmuller was christened yesterday at the Grace Cathedral Church in San Francisco; Bo Roes flew up to act as godfather; Ann Gillis is nursing a big bump on her head caused when a motorboat turned over and nearly drowned her. Rosita Moreno is back among us after three months as a star in a musical at Buenos Aires. She leaves next week for New York and a Broadway show; Raquel Torres and Stephen Ames will have a whirl in the big town before going to Florida.

TO THE THOUSANDS WHO HAVE BEEN SO INTERESTED IN "The Quizzical Camera Man"

Frankly, we've been astonished! In fact, we've been overwhelmed by the tremendous interest shown in our little quiz feature, "The Quizzical Cameraman."

The QUIZZICAL CAMERA MAN

Every day the Quizzical Camera Man tells around Boston armed with five different questions. He asks each question of as many people as necessary until he gets the right answer. To each person answering a question correctly he hands out a crisp new ten-dollar bill. Maybe he'll be in your neighborhood tomorrow. He gives away

$50.00 EVERY DAY!

These questions were all asked over station WBZ in front of the Hotel Bradford in Boston.

Question No. 1—By what name do Englishmen refer to an elevator?

Suggested Answers:

- (a) Lift (c) Cage
(b) Hoist (d) Conveyer

The first question of the day was asked of Elizabeth Earle of Commonwealth Ave., Boston. It did not take her a minute to check the right answer which was answer "A" and she immediately received a crisp new ten dollar bill.

Elizabeth Earle

Question No. 2—If you were invited to a caucus, what would you expect to see?

Suggested Answers:

- (a) A college prom (c) A track meet
(b) A political meeting (d) A house party

James McLarin of Emerald St., Medford, a salesman, was the second person on the sidewalk quiz and he was also the second ten dollar winner of the day when he checked answer "B" which was the only answer to this question. Mr. McLarin went on his way a very happy man.

James McLarin

Question No. 3—In what game is a "paw" used?

Suggested Answers:

- (a) Bridge (c) Badminton
(b) Chess (d) Polo

With thirty dollars still remaining to be given away, Joseph Kane of St. Botolph St., Boston, was asked this question. Mr. Kane knew his Chess and therefore checked answer "B." The correct answer brought him a crisp new ten dollar bill. Mr. Kane is unemployed at the present time.

Joseph Kane

Question No. 4—If you want to see the Rockettes, what would you see?

Suggested Answers:

- (a) A famous dancing team
(b) Small rocks
(c) The latest type of bombs
(d) Mountain goats

This question had to be asked of three persons before the correct answer was given. The first two persons checked answer "C" which of course was wrong. However the third person who was Elizabeth Beattie of Boston, a secretary, came through with the right answer when she checked "A." Her reward was the usual crisp new ten dollar bill.

Elizabeth Beattie

Question No. 5—If you gave a woman a tiara, where would she wear it?

Suggested Answers:

- (a) On her ankle (c) On her head
(b) Around her throat (d) On her left hand

This question like the preceding one also caused a little difficulty. The first person given the question, Esther A. Collins of Main St., Concord, said she would wear it on her head, and the next day

Those Cereal Crumbs

By MARTHA LEE

There's no need to struggle with a food chopper or grater when your recipe calls for dry crumbs. Here's a much easier and quicker way: place crisp cereal flakes between two folds of a towel, roll to desired fineness, shake the crumbs into a bowl—and there you are! Crumbs, a clean towel and a rolling pin.

NEW ZEALAND CRUMB KISSES

1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cups flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup finely cut dates
1/2 cup vitamin-enriched flaked bran cereal crumbs
Cream butter and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat until fluffy. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture along with dates. Mix well. Roll one teaspoon of mixture in cereal crumbs and flatten down on greased cookie sheet. Bake in slow oven (325 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Remove from pan while warm. Makes 3 dozen cookies (1 1/2 inches in diameter).

BROWNED PAPRIKA POTATOES

6 medium potatoes
1 tbsp. melted fat or drippings
1 cup corn flakes
1 tsp. paprika
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. chili
Fare 1 potato and cook in boiling water about 20 minutes. Drain and wash with fat. Roll corn flakes into fine crumbs and mix with paprika and salt. Roll potatoes in crumb mixture until well covered. Bake in shallow greased baking pan in moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) about 35 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

OVEN-FRIED FISH

1 lb. fish fillets
4 cups corn flakes
1 cup milk
1 tsp. salt
4 tsp. salad oil
Cut fish into serving pieces, allowing about 1/4 pound for each serving. Roll corn flake into fine crumbs. Add salt to milk. Dip fish in milk, then in crumbs and arrange on well oiled baking sheet. Sprinkle all over top of fish. Bake in very hot oven (500 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.
Note: Frosted fish can be used. For richer cooking use undiluted evaporated milk.

LEMON SPICE SAUCE

1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp. cornstarch
1 cup fruit juice
2 tsp. butter
1/2 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 tsp. salt
Mix sugar and cornstarch together. Add fruit juice gradually and cook, stirring constantly until sauce is clear and slightly thickened. Add butter, lemon juice, nutmeg and salt. Serve over baked fruit. Makes 6 servings.

Gay Terrariums Brighten Homes

Lovely growing things—how they brighten up your home when all outside is gray and dreary! And in a cozy little terrarium or dish, garden plants will thrive happily with almost no care.

For a sunny window plant a terrarium with moss-leaved coleus, sweet smelling heliotrope and graceful croton. They'll grow contentedly in a few inches of sandy garden loam or prepared fiber. And if you fasten your terrarium with moss the effect will be doubly attractive.

Moisten the soil well before planting and, immediately after, place the glass cover over the terrarium. With an occasional teaspoon of water the inside will stay moist and warm like a little greenhouse. But be sure to wipe off moisture that collects on the lid as droplets will injure foliage.

Complete directions for growing plants in pots, terrariums and dish gardens are given in our 16-page

You Can Be Beautiful

'Tip Stick' Is Latest Touch

By ARLINE GOULD

It works a bit on the bush idea, but it isn't witty and wobbly like sable . . . the brush-shaped tip is permanent, of a vividly finished but solid composition . . . and you can outline your lips as cleanly as a Hollywood make-up man . . . and as lyrically.

Inside an oblong black case, not much bigger than a lipstick, and with a mirror on one side large enough to give you a mouth-view . . . is a hidden cylinder of creamy lip rouge. The brush-like "tip stick" screws into the concealed rouge container. And every time you want to use it, up it comes with fresh rouge rubbed on the tip, enough for one mouth, clear-edged and lovely to look at.

The best system as to outline your lips, a la make-up artist, then fall in with as much or as little rouge as you like.

All the smartest new shades are to be had in this special creamy lip rouge . . . and by the way, though not at all incidentally because of its prime importance, the formula is a new one that gives the lips a very high luster . . . most tempting . . . and with a great degree of permanence.

NO LONGER does conservative society frown with disapproval on members of the younger generation who answer the call of the footlights or any other absorbing and interesting profession . . .

Time was when a social butterfly made her bow to Boston's best during a gay year of partying, and then sat at home practicing the gentle art of needlework while she waited for some Prince Charming to claim her.

Dame Boston's deb daughters have won fame as actresses, movie stars, internationally famous tennis players, skaters, skiers and sailors, photographers and writers . . . but of all the unusual occupations taken up by Boston girls after their curtsy to society, that of Marie Lee "Millie" Turner is one of the most interesting . . .

The 24-year-old daughter of Mrs. M. Lee Frothingham of Beverly Farms, Millie is descended from Boston's oldest and most aristocratic families and has been "career minded" ever since her debutante days . . . Interested in sports generally, she often helped her father, Oliver Turner, with his racing greyhounds, and from this occupation developed her interest in sled-dog driving . . .

Now she not only drives teams of Siberian huskies over Hampshire and Canada, but she has her own kennel where she raises and trains them herself . . . Dainty and feminine, with curly blonde hair, she looks like the heroine of a Northwest Mounted story when she dons her fur and leather regalia for a cross country race behind her huskies . . .

Saturday she and Norman Vaughan, who drove sled dogs over the frozen wastes of the South Pole on a recent Byrd expedition, had a lot of fun exhibiting some of their huskies in the Ladies' Dog Club fall show out in Waltham . . .

Add to Their Trophy Room Collections

WITH MRS. VAUGHAN, the former Rosamond Lockwood, they chatted excitedly about points and prizes and each won a number of prizes to adorn their trophy rooms . . . Millie wore a black flannel shirtwaist dress striped with chartruese and red, and Mrs. Vaughan wore a modish nutria brown wool suit with a pleated cape and figured brown and white blouse . . .

Baron and Baroness Krug von Nidda won a blue ribbon with one of their nine-month-old dachs pups—the Baroness looking very modish in a Scotch tartan skirt, blue tweed jacket and hat . . . Mrs. Guy Warren Walker, Jr., an ardent dog fancier, not only showed her pups but took turns with her hubby in selling British war relief emblems at a desk under a big spreading tree . . . She wore one of the new jumper dresses, of gray flannel with a buttercup yellow blouse . . .

The show was held on the picturesque lawns of the Gore Mansion, and proceeds will be divided between the restoration fund of Gore Place and war relief work of the Women's Civic Federation . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wheeler of Wellesley sat on a sunny corner of the lawn to watch the obedience tests, always the most interesting event of a dog show for the average spectator . . . Still others enjoying a close-up of so many appealing puppies and champions were Mrs. William Dexter, Sister Ware, who owns several champion fox terriers, Mrs. George Putnam, Ernestine Hills, whose pets are Dalmatians, Miss Jean Hinkle, Mrs. William Constable and Mrs. W. L. McCammon . . .

THE LADIES on the board of the Infants' Hospital are wondering what's in store for them at the extra special meeting called for next Thursday morning . . . Ordinarily the meetings are held on the first Tuesday of the month.

DEBUTANTE ANN CLARK doing the honors at a recent debutante tea makes a pretty picture in a simple gray wool dress adorned with a diamond brooch and topped by a black velvet collar and long black veil. Ann, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clark of Brookline, will make her social bow at a tea dance at the Hotel Somerset Nov. 16. She will share honors with debutante Emily Garritt.

the icy race course of New Hampshire and Canada, but she has her own kennel where she raises and trains them herself . . . Dainty and feminine, with curly blonde hair, she looks like the heroine of a Northwest Mounted story when she dons her fur and leather regalia for a cross country race behind her huskies . . .

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

TALK about your blitzkriegs! The Marina Mamas are pulling one in San Francisco right now that makes Herr Hitler's effort look like a spitball contest.

ALL because Superintendent of Schools Joseph P. Nourse, doesn't believe teachers' time and taxpayers' money should be used to teach Young America how to play contract bridge in school hours.

AND the mammas of said daughters believe it should and demand results here—now or else!

Here's how it started: For the last three years various young card fans have been playing bridge in study periods in practically every junior or regular high school in San Francisco, boys of said pupils ranging from 12 to 18. Some months since, a request was made and reluctantly granted that certain school time each week be devoted to serious instruction in said "art."

Whereupon, enthusiasm for such instruction spread like a dose of hives. And naturally! What normal youngster wouldn't rather play bridge, or marbles, or even ring-around-the-rosy, than dig at some corny old algebra or grammar?

SO EDUCATION went Contract Bridge with a bang. Until, this fall, Joseph P. Nourse, with an even louder bang, put the official taboo on the whole thing. Whereupon, Multo Mad Mamas from the Marina, Galileo, Polytechnic and Lowell High Schools arose en masse and demanded that Contract Bridge be restored as a part of the high school curriculum.

"It's a social asset for my daughter's future life," says one mother. "It develops citizenship and a practical mathematical sense," says another. "My wife and I both enjoy bridge-playing ourselves," opines another, "and are glad, etc. . ."

AUSTEN LAKE

Elegy in a Ball Yard; Newsom's 3-Hitter

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 7—Today or tomorrow, when the final audit is in, this should go down in baseball annals as the "Sissy Series," the one in which the Detroit

AUSTEN LAKE

Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds behaved less like raw-nerved, finely coordinated human animals than a set of Salvation sisters dispensing love, light and charity. There was, for example, that Sabbath day episode when Dick Bartell, a truly cantankerous little cuss with a buzz-saw temper, sailed into Jimmy Wilson, the Reds' fat, 40-year-old catcher. It was a soul-shaking, billy-goat butt which spun Wilson on his hip-pocket, or that region which the medical professional terms the "gluteus maximus."

It was a malicious bit of first inning business in which Dickie was attempting to score from second on Charlie Gehringer's single and ran out limbs and puff some distance from where Wilson was standing with a cordial smile to receive his (Dickie's) surrender. It appeared that Dickie was going through the routine of giving himself up as he gentled down to a jog. But at the instant Jimmy reached out to pat him with the ball, he gave a sudden, violent lunge which buried his skull clear up to the ears in James' jiggly middle.

A low, apprehensive "Ooooo" rose from the crowd, and Judge Landis jerked his chin from its traditional rest on the front box pipe-rails. For here was almost an exact replica of the incident which caused the famous Garbage Riot of 1935 when the Detroit players came storming out of their trench to give the Cardinals a sniff of their knuckles and an infuriated Detroit citizenry showered the field with hardware and threatened to hold a lynching bee.

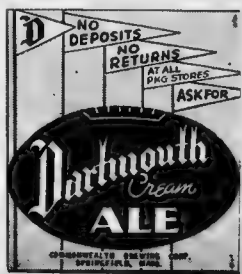

THAT WAS THE TIME WHEN DUCKY MEDWICK, the waspish Cardinal left fielder, collided with Marvin Owen at third base and simultaneously attempted to knock the ball out of his glove and the brains out of his cranial cavity. As you recall it, it made the Tigers pretty mad and was settled only when Judge Landis created a special ruling which, contrary to any existing baseball law, expelled Medwick from the field. The Judge said later that he did this less as a rebuke to Medwick than as a precaution against the people's wrath.

So here was the same identical scene, a similar circumstance and a kindred prospect of a rowdy uproar! And what happened? Why, Wilson just lay for a moment twining his legs and arms to see if they would fall off, then without so much as a reproving glance at Bartell, who was lingering hopefully nearby, went on with his business. Nay hoot nor holler came from the Reds bench. Not one of the Reds' fellowship stirred from his tracks. The game went serenely on. It was an apathetic as that! As an example of Christian tolerance it was a gem, but likewise it demonstrates why this series has been devoid of any illusion that these are two nerve-taught, quivery muscled red-corrupted groups striving for civic pride and the utmost honors of their profession. Shades of Mugsy McGraw, George Stallings, Ty Cobb and that old, immortal band of red-necked, leathery handed, die hards! What price human exasperation?

The Sunday game, as a contest of manual skill between equals, was over when Hank Gienberg arched his bid-inning home run into the left field mezzanine and squarely into an exit tunnel. It was a three-run sock which brought Bill McKeechne up on his dugout steps to get an unobstructed view and prompted this pillar of the Wilkinsburg, Pa., Presbyterian Church to kick his stack of bats around the lip of his cave in an unpoised outburst.

In fact I have never seen the usually paternal, imperturbable Will roused to such a pitch of irritation as he was all afternoon, what with exhorting his pitchers with unscriptural questions, please, to get that so-and-so ball over the plate. Willie walked tippy-toe around in circles on the duckboards of the dugout, snatched off his cap and clawed his hair, stumbled up the stairs and punched holes in the air with his fist. And once when he had yoo-hoored to John Hutchings, his fourth

Gillooly Leads

After a Saturday of gridiron upsets all over the nation, Mike Gillooly emerged the leader in the weekly forecasts among the staff members of the Boston Evening American sports department.

Gillooly was wrong on only two counts out of ten, failing to call correctly the outcome of only the Northeastern-American International, and Duke-Tennessee games. He foresaw the H. C. defeat at Louisiana State among other good picks.

Huck Finnegan and Bill Grimes missed out on three of their selections while Jack Conway, Austen Lake, Fred Lane, Will Connell, Frank Moynihan and Sam Brogan erred on four.

REDS KNOCK OUT ROWE IN 1ST INNING ATTACK

ONE RED VICTIM—Tiger Bruce Campbell goes out in an attempt to steal second in the third inning against the Reds at Detroit yesterday, and Ump Ballanfant of the N. L. crouches to get the lowdown. But the killing did the Reds no good. The Tigers romped, 8 to 0, to take a 3-to-2 lead in games played. Sixth series game went on today in Cincinnati, where the Tigers had a chance to end it all, by winning.

CROSLY FIELD, Cincinnati, Oct. 7 (AP)—Cincinnati blasted Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe off the hill with a first inning four-hit, two-run barrage today as the Reds took an early lead over Detroit in the sixth game of the World Series.

Rowe, who lasted three and one-third frames in the second game, was in there for only one out today as the Reds hit his offerings to all parts of the park.

Bill Werber lined a three-two pitch against the left field wall for two bases to start the barrage, and Mike McCormick sent him to third with a sacrifice. York took Ival Goodman's roller behind first, and held it while Werber scored and Goodman reached first for a single.

GORNICA QUELLS FIRE

F. McCormick lined a single down the left field line, and Jim Riddle sent Goodman home with a liner to right. That was all for Rowe, as John Joseph Perry Gornica relieved him.

Gornica put the fire out in a hurry, fanning Jimmy Wilson and forcing Joss to ground to the right. In the second game, Gornica allowed only one hit in four and two-thirds innings of relief pitching.

Rucky Walters, appearing in top form, put the Tigers down in one, two-three order in the first, and snuffed a second inning flurry by tossing out Tibbetts after Campbell had walked and Higgins singled with two away.

WEBER'S 18TH SOCK

Only four men faced Gornica in the 18th half of the second. Werber singling to center with two out. It was Werber's tenth hit in 20 trips to the plate, and made him the No. 1 batsman of the series.

Rain fell during the early morning, but the infield was covered with canvas and suffered no damage from the downpours, which ceased about 8:30 a. m., except for a few inconsequential drizzles.

BLEACHERS WELL FILLED

Despite the murky atmosphere, and a chilly west wind (the ball park temperature was 62) the right field bleachers were almost filled with the game two hours away. Cincinnati's fans, evidently, couldn't wait to watch Rucky Walters, three-hit winner of the second game, as he pitched the Reds back on even terms with the Tigers.

Following yesterday's 8 to 6 rout of the Reds at Detroit, the Tigers held a 3-2 edge in the big classic and could end it today by breaking through Walters' hurling. Schoolboy Rowe, knocked out of the box early in the second game, was the Detroit choice to oppose Walters.

The infield appeared a bit damp as custodians removed the canvas for the pre-game batting and fielding workouts, but a bit of raking put it in good shape. Dry sand was sprinkled in several spots around second and third base.

SCHACHT LEADS SONGS

The Redleg bleacherites didn't appear downcast because their boys were one down in the series as they responded with a will to Comedian Ivy Schacht's pleas to join him in singing several songs

9th $1,000,000 World Series

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7 (AP)—The 1940 World Series is the first million dollar series since 1937 and the ninth in history.

After the fifth game at Detroit the receipts totaled $1,057,598.10, including $100,000 from the sale of the broadcasting rights, which went into the players' pool.

If the present series were to go seven full games, the all-time record gate of $1,304,339 for series competition, set in 1936 by the Yankees and Giants, would be in danger.

While the land played in night field.

The heavy wind, blowing directly over home plate toward the short right field bleachers, was expected to aid the hitters. The bleacher fence is only 366 feet from the plate, and the wind could easily carry high flies into the enclosure.

Commissioner Landis was expected to rule that today's contest must go on, even if heavy rains fall. In 1925 he ordered Pittsburgh and Washington to play the last game of their series in a dreaching downpour.

At that time the commissioner said World Series games should be played on schedule. If at all possible, because of the expense caused by postponements to fans from outside points.

SUN BREAKS THROUGH

The sun broke through the clouds for a minute, just before noon, and was greeted by a cheer from the bleacherites.

The outfield was soggy as the teams went through batting practice. Attendants filled the coaches' boxes, bullpens and area in front of the benches with sawdust. Batters failed to get much distance on drives to the outfield.

The field was drying rapidly, however, as the sun appeared now and then through the haze.

Bucky Walters was assigned to pitch by the Reds and Schoolboy Rowe went to the mound for the Tigers as the two clubs clashed in the sixth and possibly deciding game.

WILSON CATCHES

Rain during the night and early morning drenched the playing field and cut into the size of the crowd, which probably was no greater than 25,000 when the contest started.

Catch Jimmy Wilson was to catch Walters and Fivis Tibbetts went behind the bat for the Tigers. Otherwise the lineup were the same as the clubs have used in the previous games.

The band played the national anthem as the crowd stood at attention.

There was a slight delay while the land left the field and ground-keepers gave a final preening to the base paths, but the Reds soon took the field to the accompaniment of cheers from the fans.

At game time the stands were filling and a near-capacity crowd was expected.

In contrast with the five previous games, when perfect weather forced the fans to don summer clothing, topsails and sunbats, the stands today, the wind remaining chilly despite the sporadic appearances of the sun.

Redskins Lone Pro Club Undefeated and Untied

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 (AP)—The undefeated Washington Redskins are performing in the best tradition of their laundryman-owner, the effervescent George Preston Marshall.

They've taken all of their opponents so far in the cleaners and stand now as the only undefeated and untied team in the National League.

The Redskins rang up their third straight victory Sunday, a resounding 40 to 10 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers before 25,214 spectators in Forbes Field. This was the largest of four league games crowds over the week-end, which totaled $4,831.

BAUGH UNCANNY

Jimmy Johnston and Rookie Bob Seymour of Oklahoma University furnished the scoring punch for Marshall's colorful clan. Johnston accounted for three touchdowns, one on a 61-yard punt with an intercepted pass, and Seymour scored two others.

Armand Stewart vouted a field goal for Pittsburgh in the first, and Marilyn Condit added a touchdown in the third on a short pass. The Redskins looked like real champions in grinding out 117 yards on the ground and 154 in the air. Washington connected for 12 of 21 passes. Sammy Baugh hitting his receivers nine of 13 times.

The Chicago Bears moved into a first place tie with Green Bay in the Western Division by outlasting Cleveland, 21 to 14, before a disappointing crowd of 13,398. The Bears drove through the stubborn Rams for touchdowns on 39-yard and 62-yard marches and added another score on George McAffee's 11-yard dash through the line.

The Rams rallied to tally 14 points in the third period, mainly on Parker Hall's deadly aerials, but could muster no ground attack to help him.

The Chicago Cardinals fell before the Detroit Lions, 43 to 14, Saturday night, and Brooklyn moved through Philadelphia, 30 to 17, in a Friday night engagement.

31,000 AVERAGE

After the Cards tallied a touchdown in the first quarter, the Lions took charge in the second and scored three times—on a recovered fumble, a blocked quick kick and a blocked punt.

The second score came on John Hall's 90-yard run on the second half kickoff. A full schedule of five games is on tap next Sunday, featuring Cleveland's game with Green Bay and Detroit's test with the Bears.

Pro league games have attracted 337,998 spectators to 13 games, slightly better than 21,000 a game.

HEARST RIFLE SHOOT OPEN TO ALL CLUB MEMBERS IN N. E.

The William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition being sponsored throughout New England by the Boston American-Record is open without entry fee to all senior citizen rifle clubs in the six New England states.

Similar competitions are being conducted simultaneously throughout the country by other Hearst organizations.

Entry in this competition will not only provide clubs with excellent competition but will also do much to strengthen these clubs and the sport in general through the regular features devoted to this competition in the columns of the American-Record.

There will be no conflict between this and the gallery series of the National Rifle Ass'n. The two are complementary and will not even make it necessary for a club to fire extra matches if entered in both tournaments.

If a club is already in a league for the gallery season, it will continue just as in the past. The team which wins a league championship will fire in the final match for the Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Trophy.

If a club is not in a league, such a league may be organized among the members of that club or with another club.

If clubs find it impossible to organize a league they may enter independently. Such a club will be grouped with other similarly entered clubs to form a league for these matches.

By filing an entry, riflemen of New England will add to their gallery season an opportunity of competing against the best teams throughout this part of the country. Entries should be filed as soon as possible and should be mailed to Rifle Editor Walter Kiley, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston.

Zivic Wants Barbara Go

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7 (AP)—Now that Fritz Zivic is the world's welter champ, he's anxious to settle matters with one Johnny Barbara of Chicago.

The only two defeats suffered by the Pittsburgher in 14 fights this year have been at the hands of Barbara but Fritz declares: "I know I can box his ears off now."
Zivic is signed for an over-weight match Nov. 29 with Al Davis in New York. He will give Henry Armstrong a chance to regain the welter crown on January 17. A bout with Milt Aaron in Chicago is pending.
It is wish that Armstrong would stick around for a couple more years, Fritz told friends upon his return home from the New York title battle. "He'll be a push-over for me now. I'll knock him out the next time."

Leahy Boys Get Ready For Temple

Because Head Coach Frank Leahy and his first assistant, Texas Pat McKeever, were away on Friday night in Philadelphia where Georgetown knocked Temple out of the ranks of the undefeated, the Boston College grid squad will be driven at top speed at Fenway Park Saturday. Leahy and McKeever saw enough in the work of their boys to make them feel that about the glories of Boston College will win by its victory over the Owls.

Confronted with the task of preparing both of Friday night's contestants before the season is over, the Eagle mentors are doubly sure that the 182-pound, 6-foot-10-inch, 160-pound sophomore, Temple College team, now called No. 1 in the nation.

Temple is a visitor at Fenway Park Saturday. Georgetown comes to Boston on Nov. 16. At present the Chestnut Hill school is snipping battle posts for the Eagles, whom it has defeated much stronger than the 110 defeat that the Owls suffered last week in a 14-0 loss to the 1940 Princeton College team, now called No. 1 in the nation.

Over a period of the last four years, the Boston College Temple rivalry has been an even struggle. The Owls won 1, 1936, in '37 and '38 the games tied and last fall the Leahy Eagles bounced back after their defeat by Florida to trample the Owls 19-0.

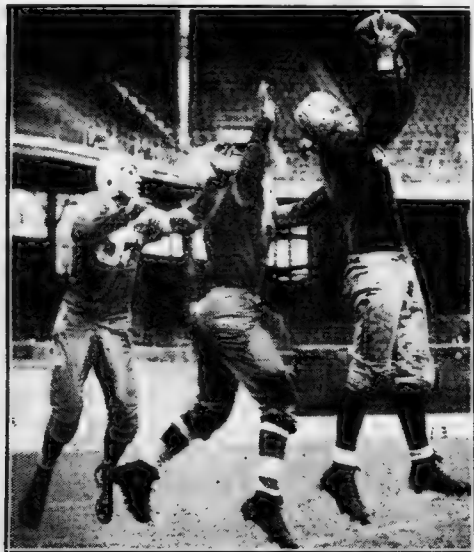

Saturday's game is one that all at Boston College are taking most seriously. It can very easily be a "key" punch to all those Bowl dreams.

It marks the third start of the 1940 season. Last year the disastrous outing against Florida was the third on the list. Josh Cody is assuring Ray Morrison with the coaching at Temple this year. Last fall Cody was head coach at Florida. The game will be played on the 12th of October at Fenway Park.

Pitch Breaks Arm

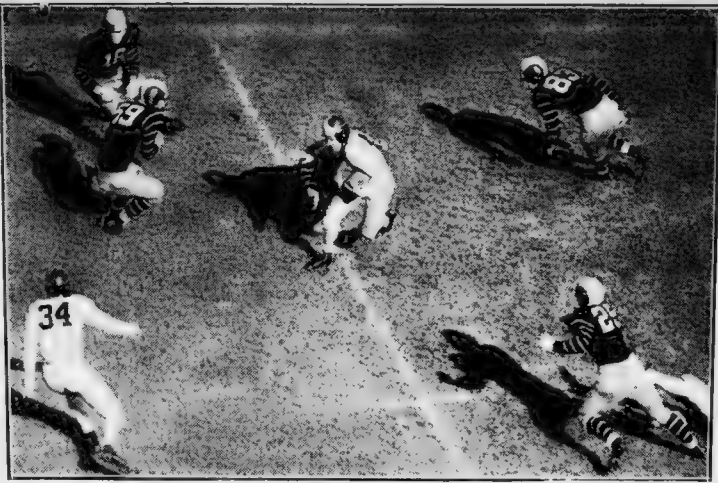

NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., Oct. 7 (AP)—With two out and nobody on base in the ninth inning, Pitcher Johnny Kiner uncoiled his mightiest delivery in an effort to clinch Marysville's 4 to 3 lead over Blain and win the county championship.

The ball rolled weakly to one side and Kiner rushed in holding his arm. Dr. John Romig said the pitcher's arm was broken.

GITSAS TROCOLAR SULLIVAN

FRIAR MAKES IT—Joe Sullivan (43), right, Providence end, outjumps Gitsas (35) and Bob Trocolar (center), of Long Island University, to snare a pass from Ray Kowalski for a first down on L. I. U.'s 19-yard line, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. The Friars' drive was stopped on the one-yard line as L. I. U. won 6-0.

SURROUNDED—Lucas off Vanderbilt, returning the ball kicked by Peters of Princeton, is stopped by Aubrey as the Tigers converge to make the "kill," in the first quarter. The other Tigers are Irwin (5), Kinniry (16), Sandbach (83) and Robinson (25). No. 34 of Vanderbilt is McElreath. The Tigers clawed Vanderbilt, 7-6.

GEORGETOWN RANKS WITH BEST IN EAST Three Terriers Out for Season

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—With the second week of October in an early-starting football season, it is becoming possible to pick out the leaders among major college teams on the basis of performances rather than traditions.

There's no guarantee, of course, that the teams which look the best now will even be in the picture at the end of the season.

Still top ranking in the various sections, on present performance, must be awarded to Cornell Georgetown, Boston College, possibly Pennsylvania in the East; Tennessee, Kentucky, Wake Forest and Clemson in the South; Michigan, Ohio State and several of their challengers in the Middle West; Texas, Texas Christian and Texas Tech in the Southwest and Stanford and Santa Clara in the Pacific Coast.

Right now the setup, by sections, looks something like this:

gate's good-looking outfit 34-0 last Saturday. The big Red team's power was checked, but it uncovered a great new passing game that makes it look like a cinch to retain its unofficial Eastern title.

GEORGETOWN 14, TEMPLE 0.

Georgetown also carried over from last year by beating Temple 14-0 Friday and now goes back to the "brother" class with Washington while Temple's Owl face Boston College, 14th last Saturday.

BIG TEN: The nine team Western Conference maintained its excellent record when only Indiana lost to its outside opposition and underwent Purdue string a big surprise by holding Ohio State to a 14-14 score in the first Conference game.

BIG SIX: Iowa State leads the group now on a 10 victory over Kansas while the other teams were turning in dismal performances against each other in opposition.

TENNESSEE WINS

SOUTHWEST: Texas Christian after losing to the Orange Bowl last week in a 2-0 win over Arizona, won 14-0 over New Mexico last Saturday. Baylor, 14-0, won over Texas Tech, 14-0, last Saturday. Texas Tech, 14-0, won over Baylor, 14-0, last Saturday. Texas Tech, 14-0, won over Baylor, 14-0, last Saturday.

SOUTH: The Georgia Tech team, which won 14-0 over Duke last Saturday, is now 14-0 over Wake Forest, 14-0, last Saturday. Georgia Tech, 14-0, won over Duke, 14-0, last Saturday.

PACIFIC COAST: Clark Shaub, 14-0, won over Stanford, 14-0, last Saturday. Stanford, 14-0, won over Clark Shaub, 14-0, last Saturday.

Gardner to Drive In Weymouth Meet

Big car drivers from New England, New York and New Jersey are entered for Saturday's Columbus Day Derby at the Weymouth Fair Grounds under the auspices of the Northeast Racing Association.

Lewis Otto of Bound Brook, N. J., winner of the 1939 10-mile race at Weymouth, is one of the 10 entered. Bob Gardner of Cohasset, Bill Randall, Reading, John Wright, Southbridge, are among those entered.

McNICOL LOST TO CRIMSON

Harvard football players reported for practice today in rather a gloomy mood because it was announced that Don McNicol, the soph who engineered the Cantata to their first touchdown against Amherst, will be viewing the Michigan romp from the sidelines.

In the second half of the game against the Jeffs, McNicol was tackled and received a severe body injury which will hold him out of the ensuing game. McNicol was never rated by the coaches to the left half on the first backfield quartet, but he was the most capable of the Harvard backfield replacements. He started the game with Amherst because Spreyer was short of work. McNicol's passing will be missed.

Harlow summoned his aides to a Sabbath session to determine the policy to be directed in view of the injury to a key player.

Harvard is low on the backfield reserves. Cliff Helman and Celeb Loring are the only backs familiar with the tailback assignments. Helman has been a javes player for two years and is not much of a runner. Loring is an untitled soph who plays some good ball for the cubs last season.

Harlow and Harvard will prepare the best they can this week or Harmon. Harmon has tallied 49 points in two games this fall and is head and shoulders above any other back in the country.

Coach Fritz Crisler is bringing one of the finest teams in the country to the stadium, and fans will have a chance to see the only Eastern appearance of the great Michigan ace, Tom Harmon.

Chisox Clinch City Series

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 (INS)—The Chicago White Sox won their sixth consecutive city series as they defeated the Chicago Cubs, 5-4, in the sixth and final game of the annual Chicago classic. The victory gave the Sox four triumphs as against two for the Cubs.

Teddy Lyons, who pitched the Sox to victory in the series opener, came back to win the clincher, although the contest went to 19 innings before it was finally decided. Lyons gave up seven hits, two of them homers by Hank Leiber and Zeke Bonura.

Shaughnessy Wins All-Bore Title

STRATFORD, Ct., Oct. 7 (INS)—"Dick" Shaughnessy, of Dedham, Mass., national sheet shooting champion, added the North American all-bore title to his list of 1940 triumphs in a tight seven round shoot-off duel with 18-year-old Jackie Horton of Edgewood, R. I., at the Remington Gun Club.

The two youngsters gained the finals after eliminating some of the most experienced shotgun marksmen in the nation.

Shaughnessy broke 99 x 100 in the main event, tying with Horton, Ed Garland of Belleville, N. J., and Frank Kelly of West Orange, New Jersey.

Miss Diana Boling of Old Greenwich, Ct., posted 98 to take the North American women's championship.

Bobby Crutchshank, Jr., 17, of Rochester, won the junior title.

COLONELS ASK TEX HUGHSON TO HALT NEWARK

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 7 (INS)—Hank Borowy threw a four-hitter as the Newark Bears defeated the Louisville Colonels, 6 to 2, to take a three to one lead in games in the International League-American Association Little World Series.

Borowy, who pitched Newark into the series, was in danger only in the second inning when Woody Williams nipped him for a single to drive for the Colonels' only earned tally.

The other Louisville run was scored in the seventh when George Scharola fumbled Williams' grounder to short.

Three of the Newark tallies were the direct result of four wild pitches by Roy Parmelee, starting hurler for Louisville. Another run was handed the Bears when Fred Shaffer, third Colonel pitcher, balked as Leo Norenkamp, ex-Red Sox, attempted to steal home. Upon the broad shoulders of Tex Hughson, the only Louisville winner, falls the important burden of stopping the Bears in the fifth game of the series in Newark to night. George Washburn is slated to go for Newark.

NAZI ARMY TAKES OVER IN RUMANIA

Nazis Deliver Death Cargo

One of the most unusual photos of the war is this . . . made from a German warplane during a raid on Portland, England . . . showing six heavy caliber bombs being rained on the harbor. Portland, a peninsula extending into the English channel, has been under bombardment repeatedly since the Battle of Britain began.
